

LIGHT RECEIPTS IN PORT TODAY

TOTAL OF 35,000 POUNDS OF FISH
LANDED HERE SINCE YESTERDAY.

Light receipts ruled the local market this morning, for while there were 10 boats reporting with catches, the total was only 35,300 pounds of all kinds. Nine of the gill netters lifted their gear yesterday, but they only landed 13,000 pounds all told. Off-shore dragger at Boston yesterday, are here to refit today.

N. F. Codfish Notes.

World markets are said to be unsatisfactory at the present time due to keeping with supply and demand. There is too much salt fish in the world today due to the lessened consumption by the substitution of cheaper foods. But there is no use for any merchant to worry over factors that cannot for the present moment be controlled, but he can give strict attention to the fish business of the future and be able to estimate his net profits by the price he is willing to pay throughout the season for purchasing supplies. Fishermen and the producing side of the industry have every reason to be well satisfied, with the results of the past few years, but exporters are not so well satisfied with the cost of supplies and the marketable value, and if a substantial margin of profit is to be experienced throughout another season a lower price will have to be offered in order to decrease the proportion of the world's overproduction through lower priced fish. St. John's World Review.

Steamers Frozen In.

The steamers Kyle and Corner are frozen in the Arctic ice of the Bering Sea. The Kyle previous to her sailing for Humbermouth had been chartered to the Port Union Shipping Company for the seal fishery. At the time it was hoped the ship would be easily available in February month and in plenty of time to be fitted out, but in view of the extraordinary ice conditions and no rope of getting clear, the charter is automatically cancelled.—Trade Review.

LOCAL RECEIPTS AGAIN LIGHT

FIVE ARRIVALS SINCE YESTER-DAY BROUGHT 41,000 POUNDS
OF FISH.

Fish continued scarce this morning, for while Boston got a fairly good supply, local receipts amounted to only 40,000 pounds, more than half of that amount being brought in by one boat for filleting. The fares were landed from shore draggers and one off-shore craft, and as gill net receipts were light yesterday, the fish found a ready market.
